

Peng Cheng

Auburn University

Peng Cheng, a PhD candidate from the Department of Chemical Engineering at Auburn University. He has over seven-year of R&D experience in product development and three-year of computational modeling experience. He is also proficient in thermodynamics, heat transfer, and finite element analysis.